MOUNTAIN EAGLE ^{8me}

It screams!

Whitesburg, Kentucky, Thursday, January 19, 1961

Vol. 53, No. 36

The Letcher County 4-H Club Council is trying to raise funds to build two cabins like this at the J.M. Feltner 4-H Club camp near London. A finance drive is scheduled here next month. About 65 Letcher County boys and girls attend the camp each year; facilities now are inadequate.

Lakes may circle county in future

Letcher County may soon be in the center of a chain of lakes.

The Corps of Engineers recently recommended construction of a lake in Knott County, and Buckhorn Dam recently was completed in Perry County. Then, there were these developments in Washington this week:

The Eisenhower Administration recommended to the Congress this week that money be appropriated to initiate construction of Fishtrap Reservoir in Eastern Kentucky and to start the pre-construction planning of the Laurel River Reservoir in Southeastern Kentucky.

The civil public works portion of the Administration's Fiscal 1962 budget proposed an appropriation of $900,000 to start construction of the big Fishtrap project in the Levisa Fork Basin of the Big Sandy River.

The Administration also earmarked between $70-75,000 in general funds of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to initiate advance engineering and design of the Laurel River Reservoir near Corbin, Kentucky. Senators Thurston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper said.

"We have been assured that the Corps of Engineers will give the strongest possible support to both Fishtrap and Laurel in their appearance before the appropriations committees of the House and Senate later this spring," the Kentucky legislators stated.

Senators Morton and Cooper expressed their "extreme gratification" that the budget provides money for the projects, and pledged their vigorous support of the appropriation through the legislative process.

"Both Fishtrap and Laurel are strategic projects in a program of water resources development so vital to economic recovery of the Kentucky mountain region," they commented. "The flood control aspects of the Fishtrap Reservoir, in particular, will be enormously beneficial to the people throughout the Big Sandy Valley, and both reservoirs will possess the potential for significant economic growth," Senators Morton and Cooper stated.

They said that the lack of an adequate flood control system had been a major obstacle in attracting new and diversified industry into the area because industrial prospects were reluctant to locate on sites subject to flooding.

"Of course, the budget will contain other recommendations affecting many river projects in Kentucky," they said, "but in view of the specific interest attached to Fishtrap and Laurel we are calling attention to them at this time."

Fishtrap Reservoir is essentially a flood control structure, and will cost approximately $40 million. The Laurel River project will be designed for flood control storage, hydro-power generation and recreation. Its initial cost is estimated at $21.9 million.

3 classrooms gained

Three more classrooms will become available on the Whitesburg school campus as the result of moves now in progress.

Supt. Sanford Adams told the Board of Education that the State Department of Education would not approve construction of new classrooms until existing facilities are put to best possible use. On recommendation of the state, the local school system is making the following moves:

The supply room, formerly located in the basement of the gymnasium building, is being moved to new quarters behind the maintenance shops. The bookstore, now on the first floor of the gym, will move to the former supply room, thus freeing one classroom.

The attendance offices, now on the third floor of the gym building, will move to similar rooms in the basement. A partition will be removed to make the old attendance offices into a classroom.

The supervisor's office, now in the English building, also will move to offices in the gym basement. The office now occupied by supervisors will become a foreign languages laboratory. Equipment already has been purchased for the laboratory and is now being installed by Salyer Radio Co.

Adams said the offices to be used in the basement have been "junked up" with stored articles and are good office space.

The state also refused to okay a proposal for a second floor to the concrete block building behind the high school but said instead an addition might be built to the English building. The addition would be between the English building and the present high school building. It might include a multi-purpose room in the basement to serve as a cafeteria and physical education room for the grade school. Adams said he hoped federal aid might be available soon enough to build a new plant for Whitesburg; he said plans are indefinite as to what buildings for Whitesburg would be constructed with federal money. But, he said, he hopes to have four new classrooms available for use next fall, and if federal aid seems too distant, other money will be used.

When the moves now going on are completed, state officials will return to help the local school board map out a complete building program.

Grand jury lists 25 in indictments

Is gun-toting on the increase in Letcher County?

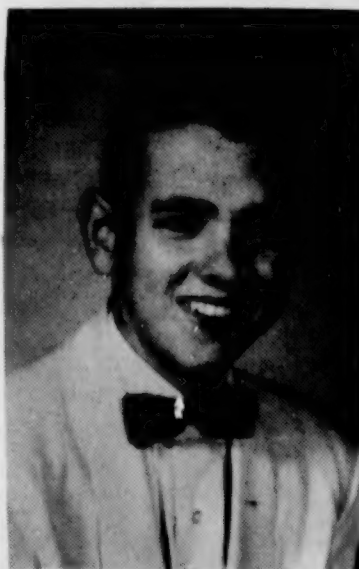

Members of the January Letcher Circuit Court Grand Jury probably would answer "yes". They indicted six men on charges of carrying concealed deadly weapons.

The six included Gid Brown Jr., Amos Tyree, Roy Breeding, Thomas J. Morgan, George Washington Stoops and Johnny Clair.

The jurors also indicted two men on a charge of attempted safebreaking in connection with the robbery of Lewis Wholesale Company in Whitesburg last October. The two were William Middleton and John Holt Jr.

Others indicted by the jury and the charges against them include: Jack R. McFall, grand larceny; Buster Smith, inducing, procuring and permitting children under 15 to indulge in immoral sexual and indecent practices with himself; Carroll Vance, assault and battery; Billy Wayne Adams, leaving the scene of an accident; Roy Breeding, damaging private property; Dave Wright and Hobert Anderson, aiding a prisoner to escape; James Edward Hall, Jesse Ball and Dewey Griffith, each, child desertation; Dewey Griffith, grand larceny; Ray Lane and Douglas Church, storehouse breaking; Orville Anderson and Ollie Anderson, malicious striking; Robert Harris, malicious cutting; Wilson Watts, false swearing; Arville E. Ralph Dudley Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodford Webb of Premium, was winner of first place in a county wide Soil Conservation Essay Contest. Webb is a student at Whitesburg High School. Runner-up was Gaylen Sue Short of Fleming-Neon High School, a daughter of Bill Short of Kona. Webb's essay will appear on the editorial page of next week's Eagle.

25 win Bethlehem safety awards

Twenty-five employees of Bethlehem Mines Corporation received awards at the company's annual safety banquet Saturday night.

One hundred forty employees and 22 guests attended the banquet, held at The Inn, Wise, Va.

After a four-course filet mignon dinner, M.E. Prunty, Safety Director, reviewed the Division's Safety Record for 1960. He complimented the men on their outstanding records and the significant reduction in frequency and severity of injuries during the year. H.E. Childers, Superintendent of Mine No. 22, and members of his organization received special recognition for their exceptional achievement of operating a full year without a lost-time accident. This record entitles them to awards from the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute, National Safety Council and Joseph A. Holmes Safety Association.

Emil Luy, assistant manager, and J.F. Wildey, director of safety and inspections of Bethlehem Mines Corporation, talked briefly to the group on safety in general, and specifically on the improvements made and records achieved in the Elkhorn Division through an accelerated accident-prevention program and increased interest of personnel in practicing and teaching safe work habits. They expressed confidence the Division's safety record would continue to improve.

James Westfield, assistant director of health and safety, U.S. Bureau of Mines; Paul Lingo, Bituminous Coal Operators association and A.H. Mandt, Kentucky State Department of Mines and Minerals, each congratulated the men on their good safety performance for 1960 and thanked them for their cooperation during this and previous years.

Other guests who attended the banquet were Messrs. Joe Malesky, W.R. Park, George Mears, Everett Brown, George Parry, P. F. Stevenson, John Clawson, F. (Page 8, Please)

LOSS OF MOTHER IS 'CRYING SHAME' TO CHILD SHOPPING IN HAZARD

by Lovell Caudill

It was nothing but a crying shame when Little Margaret Collins got lost from her mother last Saturday in Hazard while they were in the shoe store. Margaret wandered out, following a lady wearing a red coat like her mother. Finding herself lost from her mother, she began to cry. Another lady asked if she had lost her money but Margaret's reply was "No, I've lost my Mom." She soon got back with her mother - what a happy reunion.

There's lots of sickness around here this week. The little fellows are having measles. Dock Mitchell's kids have been awful sick with them, all but Jeff, who says he will have them when his little pup does. The pup was a birthday gift from Mrs. Amos Collins.

Less Caudill in another one of the sick list. He was called to Louisville last week for examination at the Veteran's hospital. He may have to go back.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Uncle Matt Dixon of Hazard, who died a few days ago, of a stroke. He was buried on the old mountain place near Bull Creek, where he was raised. Uncle Matt was in his late 80's.

French Brashear is still a very sick man at Whitesburg Memorial Hospital.

Ma Clouse is still on the critical list. She has been confined to her bed for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnson are the parents of a baby boy, born last week at the Whitesburg Memorial Hospital. They also have three girls.

Fred, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlowe Spears, has been confined to his home with hepatitis this past week. We hope he will soon be able to return to school.

dinner for the church goes last Sunday.

Joe and Stella Collins are in Louisville visiting their son, Otis, who has had a light heart attack but is slowly recovering. They will also visit their daughter, Joann, while there.

Things are picking up around Bluefield this week. We are getting a house built for our school kids to stand in the dry. If our bridge is not fixed soon, they won't be able to get to the house.

Booge Collins is home from Detroit, Mich., visiting his friends and relatives.

Asks fund donations

An appeal for support for the 1961 March of Dimes in Letcher County was made today by Ruber Watts, chairman of the drive now in progress.

Watts pointed out that use of the polio vaccine has not cut out the need for funds to treat polio patients. In fact, he said, there are 30 patients from Letcher County receiving treatment now. One of these is a new case this year; the others are still undergoing therapy which became necessary after they contracted polio earlier.

The Letcher County chapter of the National Foundation, which sponsors the March of Dimes, is $10,000 in debt, Watts said. This includes bills of $1,200 to Whitesburg Memorial Hospital; $1,200 to Harlan Memorial Hospital; $6,691 to Warm Springs, Ga., and about $600 for other bills.

In the Eastern half of Kentucky, Watts said, chapters are $150,000 in debt.

"Only a supreme effort by all of us working together will bring about our being able to meet our financial obligations," Watts said.

He added that the National Foundation also includes in its work research and treatment of arthritis and birth defects, also crippling conditions.

Cooking, laundering and bathing may add from 2 to 2 1/2 gallons of water to the air in a house in one day unless the house is properly ventilated.
